Artist Statement.

For this semester I pick my comic book, since that was the only art work that I have finished so far. To make this art work standout, I used bright marker colors because just by looking at it you can already tell what the story is about. Instead of leaving the background just white, I colored it black because every pop out when it have a black background. Without the colors I don't think this art work that I am sharing right now wouldn't be.

I had lots of trouble putting this together, I had all the ideas, but it was really hard coming up with a way to put the picture on the board and how to place them. I used lot of repetition in this drawing, because I used the same color like over and over again to make it pop. After getting everything on the board it became easy to finish the piece. The finished piece is at the bottom.
